

Pre-Kindergarten Newsletter

April 28th, 2011

Classroom News:

We have had a good week in Pre-Kindergarten! The students learned about the letter W. We have been singing songs about numbers and the alphabet. Ask your child if they could sing the chicken count song for you. They really like this one.

Also this week, the Brigance testing was performed on your child. You will receive these results at your home visit and if you have any questions, don't hesitate to ask. I am positive we are going to see improvements!

Thanks,
Mrs. Rhino

Brody Starr is painting a whale with a paintbrush using his fine motor skills.

Zack Brown is getting ready to build a house made out of blocks that connect together.

Reminder:

- Send back the home visit form I sent home this week with a time for your home visit to be done. Home visits will be done Friday, May 13th and Friday, May 20th. We will do the best we can to accommodate your schedules.

Parent Involvement at Home:

*To develop gross motor skills, use balls of all sizes to help your child practice throwing, catching and kicking. Physical activity is just as important for a child to develop as is their academics.
